

MONASH UNIVERSITY HOCKEY CLUB

MEMBER PROTECTION POLICY

To assist with club members having a safe and enjoyable experience playing hockey at the Monash University Hockey Club, the club has instigated Member Protection Officers (MPO).

The role of the MPO's is to be an unbiased voice of reason within the club that members can turn to. The MPO's have no committee involvement and are there in the club to act as a voice of reason or a friendly ear to bounce issues or problems off.

In dealing with issues that you may have as players, please follow the normal channels.

That is:

- Talk to your coach
- Talk to your VP
- Talk to your Coaching Co-Ordinator
- Talk to your Captain

If you feel uncomfortable or unsure in talking to one of those, then utilise the MPO's to give you unbiased advice and guidance to help you feel safe and enjoy your Monash experience. The club has chosen MPO's that are friendly, have experience within the club and can offer a lot of common sense with helping you deal with issues.

We have 2 Men and 2 Women available to contact, so please feel free to contact them with your issues if you need guidance or assistance in having them dealt with.
